

HIGH-TOUCH SURFACES

High-Touch Surfaces Require Attention

High-touch surfaces are frequently touched areas that can collect germs and spread illness

- Frequent contact with hands requires regular cleaning and disinfection
- Minimum of daily cleaning is essential
- Increase frequency if the risk of contamination is higher (example: during outbreaks)
- Some examples include:

Door Handles

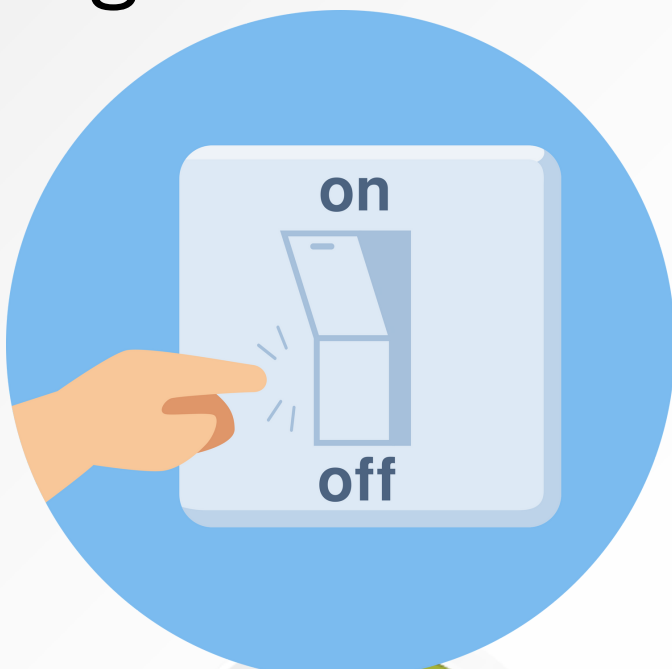

Toilet Handles

Bed Rails & Call Bells

Light Switches

Elevator Buttons

Shared Workstations

